Development

After a strong beginning to the year, equity markets paused in March, with the S&P 500 rising 0.1%. Economic data was generally positive, but the House failed to pass a new health care plan, and investors became more skeptical of the administration's ability to implement significant stimulative policies. As expected, the Fed hiked rates by 25 basis points at the March meeting. Longer term interest rates were essentially unchanged, with the yield on the 10-year U.S. Treasury finishing the month at 2.39%.

Against this backdrop, the Convertible Investment Strategy had a good month rising approximately 1% (gross of fee). This beat the return of both the S&P 500 and the BofA ML All US Convertible Index (VXA0), which rose 0.64% and 0.12% respectively. Convertibles with large cap underlying equities outperformed mid and small cap. Technology and Consumer Discretionary were the best performing sectors, while Materials was the weakest. The portfolio continues to be overweight the balanced, convex zone of the convertible market, which offers the best combination of upside participation and downside protection.

At this juncture, the overall environment is positive with improving economic trends and strong credit conditions. The convertible market remains healthy as evidenced by $4.9 billion in new issuance during March. This brings the year-to-date total to $12.4 billion, which is a substantial improvement over the first quarter of 2016 when issuance totaled $2.1 billion.

The Composite & Benchmark

The Convertible Investment Strategy (composite created January 1983) is invested in convertible bonds and convertible preferred stocks, and do not have credit quality restrictions. The Strategy may hold 144A securities. The composite contains fully discretionary accounts including those no longer with the firm. SSI believes a performance comparison versus the BofA Merrill Lynch All Convertibles Index (the "VXA0") is appropriate. The VXA0 measures the return of all U.S. convertibles. SSI does not hold all convertibles in the VXA0 and may also hold convertibles that are not included in the VXA0. The Strategy is less diversified than the VXA0. The volatility of this strategy may be greater than the volatility of the VXA0 as the strategy holds a smaller number of positions than the Index. The return, if any, above the VXA0 is dependent upon SSI's discretionary management. Any other indices shown are not necessarily comparable to SSI's Convertible Investment Strategy. These are widely recognized market indices that are shown for informational purposes only. The composite name was formally known as SSI Outright Discretionary Convertible Strategy from 1/1/1983 – 3/31/2016 and on 4/1/2016 the new composite name became the SSI Convertible Investment Strategy.

Investment Management Fees

Returns are presented gross and net of management fee. Actual results of an individual account may be materially different from the performance shown herein because of differences in inception date, transaction and related costs, restrictions, fees and other factors. All performance is based in U.S. dollars and reflect, on a percentage basis for each of the periods indicated: (a) the net increase (decrease) of all SSI Convertible Investment Strategy portfolios, dollar-weighted, including adjustments for unrealized gains and losses, the reinvestment of dividends and other earnings, the deduction of investment costs except any separate custodial or related fees, time-weighted to adjust for additions and withdrawals, and (b) the net increase (decrease) of the VXA0.

Net performance is reduced by SSI's actual investment management fees. Gross performance does not include deduction of SSI's investment management fees.

If performance is gross of management fees, client's actual return will be reduced by the management fees and any other expenses which may be incurred in the management of an investment advisory account. See SSI's Form ADV, Part 2A for a complete description of the investment advisory fees customarily charged by SSI. As an example, an account with an initial $1,000,000 investment on January 1, 2003, earning a recurring 5% semi-annual gross return (10.25% annualized), and paying a .5% semi-annual management fee (1% annual fee) would have grown to $1,340,096 on a gross of fees basis and $1,300,392 on a net of fees basis by December 31, 2005 (3 years).

Additional Disclosure

SSI acquired Frole Revy and its composites as of March 1, 2009. Prior to the acquisition, Frole Revy claimed GIPS compliance for the periods of 1983-2008 and was independently verified by Ashland Partners & Co.
